Color is an ever-evolving aspect in the flooring and design industries which is why, we at Loxscreen have been studying color to find out what trends have been adapted and are selling in the professional market segment. The 2016 color forecast according to the Color Marketing Group is a warming trend in interiors. You may have already noticed that color trends for flooring and accessories are moving away from cold grays and whites and into colors that represent earth and nature. Green Olive and Terra Cotta are not only part of the color forecast but are also widely used in healthcare facilities and fitness centers. The remaining colors in this new pallet represent the top sellers in vinyl within their color group. Keep your eyes and ears open in 2016 for large commercial jobs calling for these warm colors and rest assured that Loxscreen has you covered with the 5 day shipping guarantee for these and any of our 45 colors in our assortment.
